

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE DISTRICT OF MASSACHUSETTS

BRAUN GmbH,

Plaintiff,

v.

REMINGTON PRODUCTS
COMPANY, LLC,

Defendant.

Civil Action No. 03-12428-WGY

REVISED JOINT STATEMENT PURSUANT TO LOCAL RULE 16.1(D)

Pursuant to the Court's Order at the September 14, 2004 Scheduling Conference, the parties hereby submit this Revised Joint Statement.

I. BACKGROUND OF THE LITIGATION

Plaintiff Braun GmbH ("Braun") brings its claims for patent infringement and correction of inventorship against Remington Products Company, LLC ("Remington"). Braun alleges that Remington is infringing on two of its patents related to cleaning systems for dry shavers, specifically U.S. Patent No. 5,711,328 ("328 patent") and U.S. Patent No. 5,649,556 ("556 patent"). Additionally, Braun has asked the Court to correct inventorship pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 256 on both the '328 and '556 patents to include Dr. Pahl, who was omitted from the patent applications. Braun seeks both injunctive relief and damages. Remington denies that it infringes the '328 and '556 patents, contends that they are invalid, and pending discovery, opposes the correction of inventorship.

II. PROPOSED PRETRIAL SCHEDULE

The parties agree to generally be bound by the discovery event limitations set forth in Local Rule 26.1(C), but also agree to the following modifications:

1. Depositions will be limited to a total of 80 hours; and
2. More than one 30(b)(6) deposition of a corporate entity will be permitted.

Additionally, the parties agree that:

1. Service by facsimile will be equivalent to service by hand;
2. The parties will provide certified translations of all foreign language documents that the party translates for its own use; and
3. Braun will make all of its witnesses who are employees of Braun available for deposition in the United States. With respect to foreign citizens and/or former employees of Braun, Braun will use its best efforts to make them available for deposition in the United States and/or without the need to resort to the formalities of the Hague Convention.
4. Where a deposition is being conducted in a foreign language, the parties will negotiate time limits to reasonably accommodate the translation process.
5. Remington proposes to bifurcate liability from willfulness and damages both during discovery and at trial. Braun does not agree that bifurcation is appropriate or efficient in this case.

Braun and Remington submit the following schedule, upon which they agree, except as noted below with regard to the timing and context of the Markman hearing:

Event

Date

Initial Disclosures Exchanged

September 22, 2004

Deadline to Add Parties and Claims

November 5, 2004

Expert Report of Party with Burden	April 1, 2005
Rebuttal Expert Report	April 22, 2005
Rebuttal Expert Report of Party with Burden	May 6, 2005
Close of All Discovery	July 22, 2005
Deadline For Dispositive Motions	August 1, 2005
Final Pretrial Conference	September 20, 2005
Trial Commences (Estimated 1-2 weeks for trial)	October 2005

Braun and Remington offer differing proposals with regard to the timing and context of the Markman hearing:

Braun's Position

Braun continues to propose that the Markman determination occur early and in the concrete context of a motion for partial summary judgment for infringement. Since the determination will rest largely, if not exclusively, on intrinsic evidence, there is no need for discovery. The Markman determination may well lead to an early conclusion of the litigation and in any event will almost certainly reduce the expense and time required for the case. An early determination is particularly needed because of the seasonal nature of sales of the product involved, with a very substantial percentage of annual sales occurring in the holiday season.

Remington's Position

In an effort to compromise with Braun, Remington proposed an accelerated Markman schedule from what Remington previously proposed to the Court. Under the schedule currently proposed, Markman briefing will begin approximately two months after Initial Disclosures are exchanged. Remington believes that approximately two month period allows Remington to take limited discovery relevant to claim construction. While the Court will consider the intrinsic evidence of the patents-in-suit, it is entirely appropriate for the Court to consider trustworthy extrinsic evidence which Remington should be allowed limited time to explore in discovery.

A. Braun's Proposed Schedule:

Dispositive Motion Regarding Infringement, Including Braun's Claim Construction Under Markman	October 15, 2004
Opposition to Dispositive Motion, Including Remington's Claim Construction Under Markman	October 29, 2004
Reply to Opposition to Dispositive Motion	November 5, 2004
Hearing on Motion For Summary Judgment on Infringement	Scheduled by Court

B. Remington's Proposed Schedule:

Braun's Infringement and Claim Construction Contentions	October 22, 2004
Remington's Non-Infringement and Claim Construction Contentions	November 19, 2004
Braun's Markman Brief	December 1, 2004
Remington's Markman Brief	December 22, 2004
Braun's Reply Brief	January 5, 2005
Markman Hearing	To be Determined

III. TRIAL BEFORE A UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE JUDGE

At this time, the parties do not consent to the assignment of this matter to a United States Magistrate Judge.

IV. SETTLEMENT

On September 8, 2004, Braun made a formal settlement offer to Remington. Remington has not responded, and the parties are continuing to explore a range of settlement options in this matter, and will keep the Court apprised of their progress.
